CIVIS – Creation of a European Civic University

- Emerging from the Bologna process initiated in 1998, the "CIVIS" alliance, led by Aix-Marseille Université alongside 7 European universities, is the winner of the European Commission's call for projects on European universities in June 2019.

- As an essential instrument for the renewal of the European integration process, the alliance must promote the physical and virtual mobility of staff and students and build bridges between the academic, socio-economic and cultural worlds.

- Aix-Marseille Université is a leader alongside 7 universities:
  - Kapodistrian University of Athens (Greece),
  - Bucarest University (Roumania),
  - « Université Libre de Bruxelles » (Belgium),
  - European University of Madrid (Spain),
  - Roma la Sapienza university (Italy),
  - Stockholm University (Sweden),
  - Eberhard Karls Universität Tübingen (Germany).

- CIVIS will federate nearly 400,000 students and 55,000 staff. This integrated university space aims to allow students, academics, researchers and staff to move and collaborate as freely as in their home institution.
CIVIS – Creation of a European Civic University

• A space for innovative and responsible education, research, cultural exchanges and civic action in Europe, from the Baltic Sea to the Mediterranean Sea and Africa: Europe's bridge to the South over the Mediterranean area and Africa.

• With its strong partnership dimension, CIVIS aims to become an important European player in 5 priority areas:
  ⚫ health
  ⚫ cities, territories and mobility
  ⚫ climate, environment and energy
  ⚫ digital and technological transformations
  ⚫ society, cultures and heritage.

• Themes address important societal issues and challenges, such as sustainable development objectives as defined by the United Nations.

• A decisive contribution to the attractiveness of the alliance's universities on the world stage.
